

Snickerdoodle Dreams Scrappy Quilt

Saturday, 12 June 2010 09:12 - Last Updated Monday, 12 July 2010 06:24

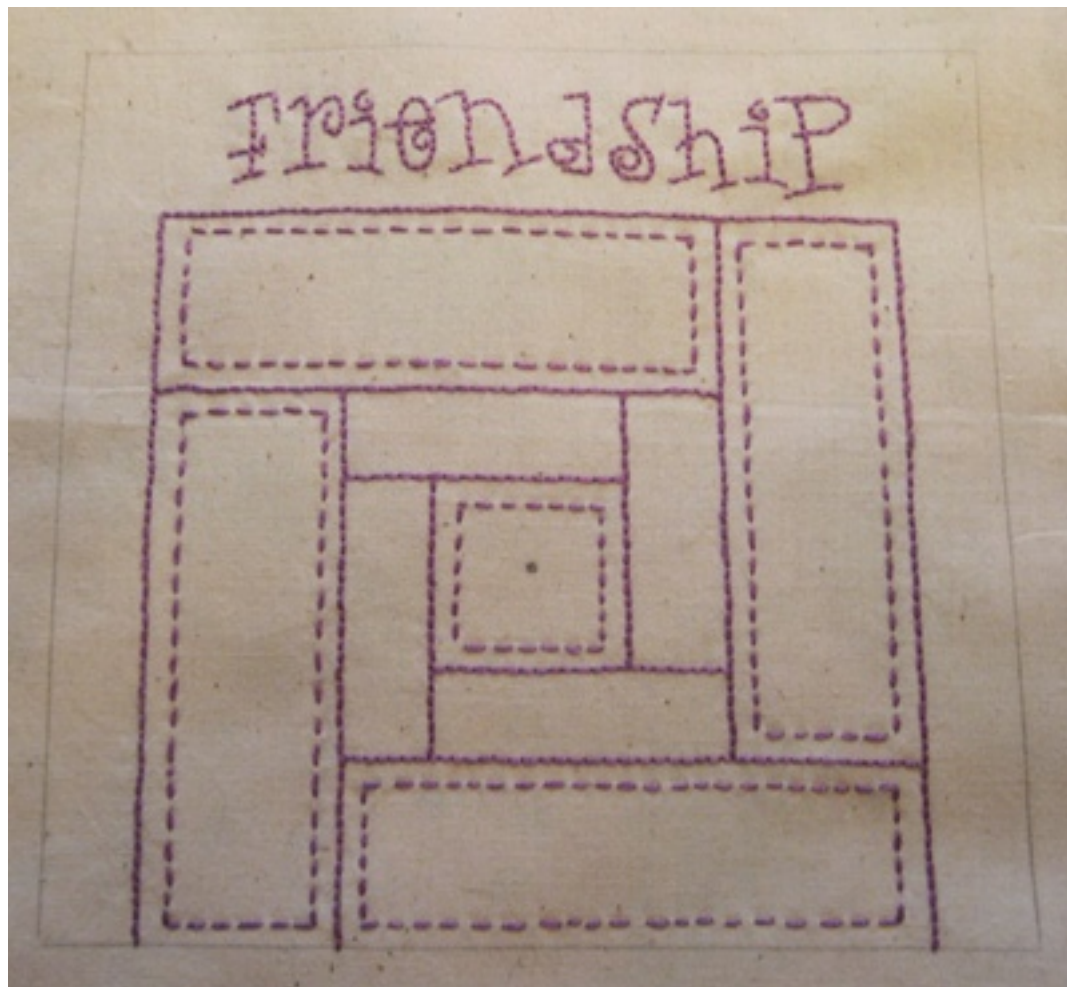

This quilt pattern is a freebie from the Snickerdoodle Dreams website. If you sign up with your email address, you can get the entire free pattern here. This first block of this quilt was released in honor of National Quilting Day in March 2010. It is a scrappy quilt. The quilter is supposed to choose her favorite color and find fabrics from her stash that contain that specific color. Blocks are to be 5" square when finished.

The inspiration quilt contains blocks with the following inspirations words: happiness, friendship, inspire, create, family, dream, peace, courage, love, hope, believe and faith. This quilt gives these snippets of advice to inspire each and every one of us in our daily lives and in our quest for creativity. All of these values are sooooo important in my life. I have concentrated on them throughout 2010.

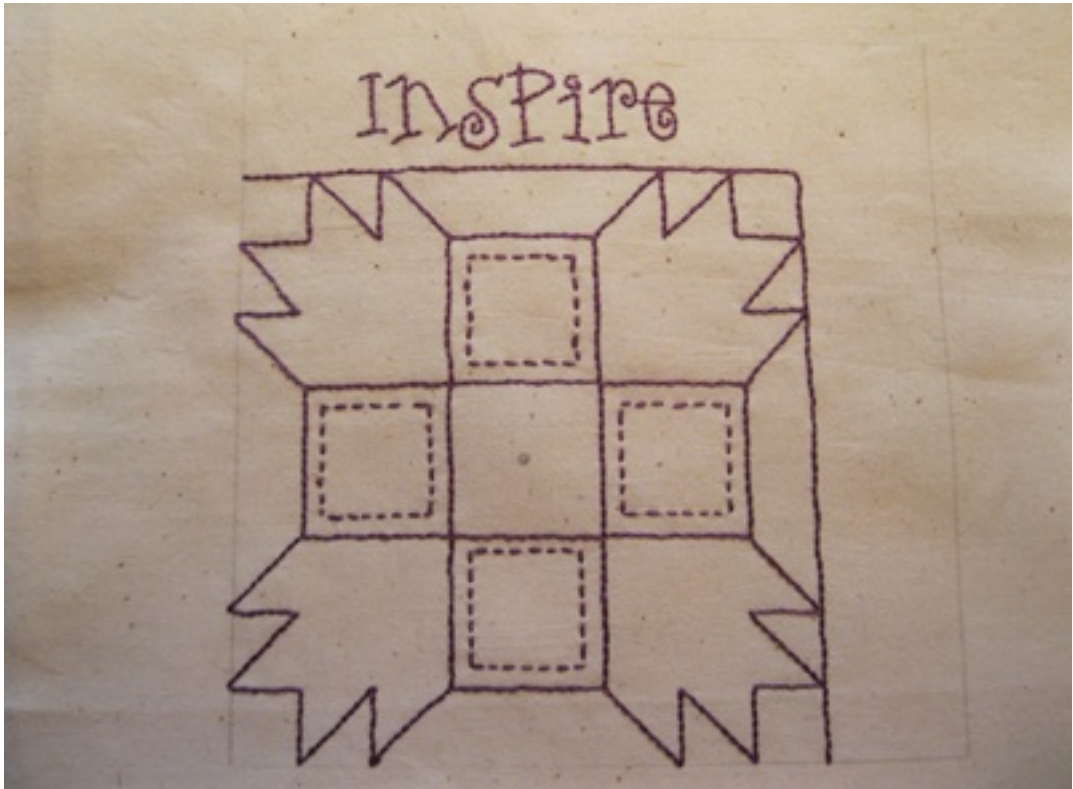

I chose lavender and dark purple embroidery floss to embroider my blocks on muslin. I will coordinate with a bunch of light and dark purple fabrics. Here are the blocks I have completed to date.....

Block 1: Happiness

Block 2: Friendship

Block 34 - inspire - finished blocks very close to design and post the quilt as a complete quilt now and I will work

On my next post for what has filled my world with creativity, inspiration & Please share it with us
